

FAQs for journalists

What is Third Door?

Third Door is a family-friendly coworking space with an on-site Ofsted registered Nursery.

Where did the idea come from?

Third Door's founder, Shazia Mustafa, was trying to work around looking after her five-month old daughter and finding it extremely difficult. She wanted a place to work in peace, where her baby would be cared for nearby. Nowhere offered a solution, so Shazia and her husband Yusuf decided to create one themselves.

Who uses Third Door?

Mothers, fathers, parents, non-parents, freelancers, remote workers, entrepreneurs, business owners – we have a huge variety of members!

What do you mean by a 'flexible' workspace/nursery and how do you manage it?

Our workspace and nursery are bookable on a totally flexible system where you only book and pay for the childcare/workspace you need. You can book workspace for as little as one hour, and childcare for as little as two hours. We have developed our own, bespoke software system to manage the staff to child ratios and enables our members to book online as little as 48 hours in advance. Essentially, our staff team are consistent as our families, we have created a service that works for today's modern working families,

What is Third Door's ethos?

Third Door is built on values of respect, curiosity and confidence. We aim to nurture and facilitate these qualities in the children we care for as well as the adults using our workspace. We care deeply about equal parenting, parental mental health, work/life balance and early years education, and would love to join any conversations around these topics.

For more information, interviews and enquiries please contact Claire:
press@third-door.com 07754305489